OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY AND COUNTY.

Democratic Nominations.

FOR STATE TREASURER.
 EDWARD L. CHONKITE, of Stephenson.
 FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.
 SAMUEL M. ETTER, of McLean.
 FOR CLERK OF THE SUPREME COURT, SOUTHERN GRAND DIVISION.
 JACOB O. CHANCE, of Marion.
 FOR CLERK OF THE DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHERN GRAND DIVISION.
 JOHN Q. HARMAN, of Alexander.

THE latest dispatches from London declare that the prospects for peace are very favorable.

A MAJORITY of the members of the National Democratic committee are in favor of New York city as the next place of meeting.

GEN. GRANT has written a letter to a friend in Cincinnati in which he says that his stay abroad will in all probability be prolonged another year.

The admirers of Voltaire in France propose to celebrate his centennial anniversary at Paris during the exposition.

GAMALIEL BRADFORD, of Boston, predicts an approaching irrepressible conflict between the legislative and executive powers of the government.

The seat in the United States, now occupied by M. C. Butler of South Carolina, is a contested one, the other claimant being Dr. Corbin.

The Paducah Kentuckian says that a very considerable exodus of colored people from Kentucky to Kansas is taking place this spring.

LAMAR made a strong speech in the senate on Wednesday in favor of the Texas Pacific railroad bill.

QUEEN VICTORIA is sixty years of age to-day and it is also the forty-first anniversary of her accession to the throne of Great Britain.

At the meeting of the National Democratic committee in Washington on Wednesday, twenty-nine states were represented.

The committee met about one o'clock and Senator Sherman's letter on the Potter resolution, in which he makes formal application for leave to be represented before them, was read.

The St. Louis Times says the letter of Mr. John Sherman, Secretary, etc., to Mr. Potter, chairman of the investigation committee, is not an evidence of profound wisdom or ripeness of judgment.

To characterize the letter briefly, it is a bit of mild bluster.

If Weber and Anderson procured the subornation by which the East Feliciana returns were "cooked," the same witnesses will not be competent in the case when it comes before the investigating committee.

A man is not competent to testify in his own behalf when being tried on a charge of perjury.

Yet that is what Mr. Sherman proposes in his letter to Mr. Potter. The allegation is made that certain testimony is false: Mr. Sherman, without meeting the main issue, proposes to prove the evidence true. He puts himself forward to prove a negative. His letter to Mr. Potter will not add to his reputation as a lawyer or fortify him in a defense before the committee.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The removal of the battle flags from the State arsenal to the State house took place at Springfield yesterday.

—The American Sunday School Union celebrated its forty-fifth anniversary in Philadelphia on Monday night.

—Rev. Samuel S. Isaacs, the oldest Jewish minister in the United States and editor of the Jewish Messenger, is dead.

—The soft-headed young man who is following a wheel-barrow from New York to San Francisco, arrived in Chicago on Wednesday night.

—Secretary Schurz' assistant private secretary is a young Nebraska girl, who reads and answers all his German, French and Spanish correspondence.

—Four hundred thousand bales of cotton have been received in Memphis during the present cotton season. These are the highest figures ever reached in that market.

—John W. Drew, the pioneer of the Murphy movement in Iowa, has secured one hundred and fifty thousand signatures to the pledge in that state. This array of names does not include those who have signed at the solicitation of other temperance workers.

—The women of Pennsylvania design buying the farm house of Valley Forge, where Washington had his headquarters during the gloomy winter of the revolution, and making a second Mount Vernon of it, filling its rooms with relics of the days of the war for independence.

—A special dispatch to the St. Louis Republican of yesterday says that on Wednesday morning between nine and twelve o'clock there resided in Herman Duncan, four miles east of Mt. Vernon, Ill., was entered by burglars during the absence of the family, and $800 in gold and $900 in silver and currency taken. The thieves were not caught.

—Within the last eight months the number of horses reported stolen at police headquarters, in Kansas City, was 368. The thefts reported were divided between the four border states in the Mississippi valley as follows: Horses reported stolen in Kansas, 157; horses reported stolen in Missouri, 140; horses reported stolen in Iowa, 50; horses reported stolen in Nebraska, 21; Total 368.

—A famine on the coast of Labrador has caused great suffering among the people there. The fisheries failed them last fall and the traders who gave them provisions in barter for their fish and oil abandoned the territory. Thus before winter set in the whole population were left to starve or subsist until summer on fish offal. Whole families have lived through the winter on rotten, half frozen carcasses of seals driven ashore by the ice-floes. Others have kept body and soul together by devouring the nauseous flesh of the black lump-maria. The women hunt the shore like specters, picking up the dead seal, while the men and boys gather sea moss or shell fish.

A GOOD STORY OF A KIND-HEARTED OLD MAN.

(From the Springfield Republican.)

A young pianist was giving concerts through the provinces of Germany for her support, and to enhance her reputation she advertised herself as a pupil of Liszt. In a little town in the interior of Germany, where she had announced a concert, she was confounded the day before the concert was to take place by seeing in the list of arrivals and at the very hotel where the concert was to be given, "M. L'abbé Liszt." Here was a dilemma, and what to do she knew not. Her fraud would be discovered; she would be exposed; she could never give another concert; she was ruined.

Tremblingly she sought the presence of the great maestro, determined to make a clean breast of it, and cast herself on his mercy. Coming into his room with down-cast eyes, she knelt at the old man's feet and with many tears told her story—how she had been left an orphan and poor, with only her one gift of music with which to support herself; the difficulties she had encountered, until the fraudulent use of his great name had filled her rooms and her purse. "Well, well," said the great man, gently raising her up, "let us see, my child, what can we do. Perhaps it is not so bad as you thought. There is a piano; let me hear one of the pieces you expect to play to-morrow evening."

Tremblingly she obeyed, the maestro making comments and suggestions as she played, and when she had finished he added: "Now, my child, I have given you a lesson: you are a pupil of Liszt." Before she could find words to express her gratitude Liszt asked: "Are your programmes printed?" "No, sir," was the answer, "not yet." "Then say that you will be assisted by your master, and that the last piece on the programme will be played by the Abbé Liszt."

AN IMPRISONED OWL.

The Lancaster, Penn., Examiner says: "The owner of a large farm, not far from Lancaster, had an opportunity a few days ago of witnessing how an interloper is punished by the martin species of birds. A pair of martins had taken possession of a small box, and were building their nest. One day, while they were absent, a screech-owl took possession of their box, and when the martins came home would not allow them to enter. The smaller birds were nonplussed for awhile, and in a short time flew away, seemingly giving up the fight. But if the owl was of this opinion he was sadly mistaken, for in a short time the little ones returned, bringing with them a whole army of their companions, who immediately set to work and procuring mud, plastered the entrance to the box. They then all flew away. In a few days the box was examined and the owl found dead."

GETTING INTO THE EXPOSITION AT PARIS.

(Tribune Letter.)

I went up to the exhibition this afternoon. My only title to admission was a temporary ticket which had expired with the month of April. My photographic ticket of leave had not yet been issued—tickets, like most other things, being behind hand. But no difficulty was made on this score. The only difficulty was to find out the right wicket through which to enter. On some of these there were no signs or inscriptions of any sort. The policemen respectfully appealed to supplied the missing link, and I underwent for the first time the formidable ordeal of regular entrance. A small double door-house, composed of a central passage with a sentry-box on either side, confronts you. A squad of police surround it, but do not oppose your approach. A policeman bars the narrow passage-way inside. A wicket-keeper to the right surveys the newcomer for a second; takes my ticket, inspects it on both sides, and is himself inspected during the process by his colleague opposite. The ticket proving satisfactory, wicket-keeper No. 1 nods to me and to wicket-keeper No. 2, who, in turn, nods to the policeman, who in turn nods to me again, and steps civilly aside. I suppose that I am at liberty to pass, but I am wrong. I had forgotten wicket-keeper No. 3, to whom my attention is directed as I pass on, and to him also I have to submit my purple card. He is satisfied with the most cursory glance, nods, strikes a bell, and in this time I am really through.

A BATCH OF FINE DRESSES.

The dresses worn by Mile. Albani, who has just made her appearance in Paris in "La Traviata," were made by Worth expressly for the occasion, and are real marvels of taste and magnificence. In the first act her toilet was composed of a train and corsage of pale pink satin, embroidered with gold and silver, and with the train lined with cream satin. This was turned back, on reverse, over a short, close-fitting underskirt of russet colored velvet, embroidered with set bouquets of flowers in gold and silver, and edged around the hem with a rich, gold fringe. The waist was cut square, with half sleeves, and was embroidered with gold and silver. A pale, pink feather was confined by a diamond circle in her hair. Ornaments of pearls and diamonds. In the second act she wears a morning dress of cream yellow stamped velvet, cut princess, with a Louis XV waistcoat of pale blue satin, set with steel buttons, over an underskirt of pale blue satin, cut loose in front, very ungracefully, just below the waist, and bordered at the hem with black velvet and with fringe of pale yellow and cut steel beads. Her third dress is white satin and silver. The underskirt is bordered in front with an elaborate shell-shaped trimming in satin, edged with silver. Over that is a very short apron overskirt, embroidered with silver, coming but a little below the knee, and bordered with a wide white silver fringe. This is crossed transversely with a wreath of the glossy green leaves of the camellia, with a single white blossom here and there. Two similar garlands cross behind, holding back the long train of white satin, embroidered with silver. The waist is cut half high, in the graceful modest style known of old as a la vierge, and is crossed by a garland corresponding to those on the skirt. The collar is high and crepe, and is studded with large diamonds. Mile. Albani carries in this act an exquisite fan of white feathers and mother-of-pearl; in the first act her fan was an antique painted one of great beauty.

THE BLUE RIBBON IN IOWA.

(See Moline Correspondence of the Chicago Evening Journal.)

The success of the blue ribbon movement in this state is simply marvelous. Commenced by John W. Drew, who came here unknown, it has extended nearly all over the state. Nothing like it was ever known. Mr. Drew has alone secured over 150,000 pledges. It has been carried on by men and women whose hearts were in the work, and who had homes, friends, fortune and happiness at stake. It has fairly revolutionized this city in temperance and sobriety. Instead of alighting, the interest increases. No two halls can hold the crowds that gather at the meetings. Hundreds of men have been lifted from the gutter to places of sobriety, and their homes filled with thrift, peace and happiness. It has touched all grades and ranks of society. Side by side stand up the millionaire who has squandered his wealth and the poor laborer, who spent his paltry pittance, and tell the same story. While it is thus reforming men, it has largely lessened crime and disorder. Its benefit is shown every day in the records of the criminal courts. The club here has purchased a church edifice, moved it to a lot on the main business street of the city, and elegantly fitted it up for use as a tabernacle in which to hold meetings. It is a spacious structure, and will stand as a glorious monument to the noble purposes for which it is dedicated and to the honor of the city. It was dedicated yesterday with appropriate ceremonies. The original members were all there, and it was interesting to hear them stand up and say that five months was a long time for them "between drinks," but, with the help of Almighty God, they proposed to "stick" (pointing to the motto of the club on the walls) for five years—yes, to the end of life.

EXPRESSIVE OF A NATURAL SENTIMENT.

(From the Hartford Times.)

Col. Bob Ingersoll's doctrine of No Hereafter lends Alvan P. Hyde to relate this true story: In Stafford, some years ago, the Rev. Mr. Church, a Congregational minister, turned Deist, and finally disbelieved in any future. He preached a sermon to prove that there was no hereafter. Nobody approved of it and he felt uneasy. Meeting an old shaker named Horace Colburn, Church said, "Horace, how did you like that sermon?" "I don't know," said Colburn, thrusting out his tongue (as was his manner when humbled)—"I don't know. I'd rather go to hell than go nowhere."

There was a little fellow who knew Mother Goose better than he knew his Bible. On Sunday he was asked in his class, "Who were thrown into the fiery furnace?" That was too much for him. The question was passed; the answer came promptly. Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego." This was a mortification to the little fellow; and when the next question came, "Who put him in?" he answered with a jump, "Little Johnny Green!"—(Sunday School Times.)

OUT OF TUNE.—When the tones of a musical instrument become harsh and discordant, we say it is "out of tune." The same may be said of that far more wonderful and complicated piece of mechanism, the human structure, when it becomes disordered. Not only actual disease, but those far more common causes, over-work, mental anxiety and fast living may impair its vigor and activity. The best remedy for a partial collapse of the vital energies, from these as from other causes, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is at the same time an agreeable and mind-cheering cordial and the best possible invigorant in all cases of debility. It is an incomparable stomachic anti-bilious medicine, eradicates fever and ague, and prevents subsequent attacks. It remedies with certainty and thoroughness bowel and kidney complaints, dyspepsia, nervousness, rheumatic troubles and many other bodily ailments. It also counteracts influences which predispose to disease.

HAVE YOU A COUGH.—That dry hacking cough is the herald of approaching consumption. To check the swift progress of the destroyer, prompt and decisive measures must be restored to. A dose of Dr. Morris' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Horehound, taken when the coughing spells come on, will afford immediate relief, and eventually effect a thorough cure. It will be found equally beneficial in all forms of throat and lung disorders. In case of croup it is of inestimable value. Call at the drug store of Barclay Brothers and inquire about it; they will furnish you with a trial size bottle for 10 cents. A large size 50 cents and one dollar.

Also agents for Prof. Parker's Pleasant Worm Syrup, which never fails. Pleasant to take, and requires no physic. Price 25cts.

A REMARKABLE RESULT.—It makes no difference how many physicians or how much medicine you have tried, it is now an established fact that German Syrup is the only remedy which has given complete satisfaction in severe cases of lung diseases. It is true there are yet thousands of persons who are predisposed to throat and lung affections, consumption, hemorrhages, asthma, severe colds settled on the breast, pneumonia, whooping cough, etc., who have no personal knowledge of Boschee's German Syrup. To such we would say that 50,000 dozen were sold last year without one complaint. Consumptives, try just one bottle. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all druggists in America.
